Brothers Abdur and Abdul splash out £60,000...on a jet fighter

By Russ Lawrence
russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

TWO Tottenham brothers are the envy of their pals after becoming the proud owners of the ultimate "boy toy"– an ex-military ground attack jet fighter.

Abdur Razzak 27 and his younger brother Abdul, 22, have spent £60,000 on a 1974 RAF-owned jet-powered BAC 167 Strikemaster combat and advanced trainer aircraft.

But don't expect to see it parked in the front garden of their home in Risley Avenue or flying any time soon as neither has a pilot's licence.

Even if they had, they wouldn't be able to fly a high performance jet plane without having spent years logging flying hours in single engine aircraft and then a further intensive course of training to gain the necessary expertise and certification to handle a jet.

The retired aircraft, once used as a training plane, has had all its weaponry removed and is stored in a hanger at an airfield in Leicester.

"It was a dream of ours to own a jet ever since we were schoolkids, said Abdul, who works as a manager for an events company.

"We saved all our money from Saturday jobs and later from our full-time jobs.

"It's a lot of money, but the idea is for us to restore and refurbish it and get it airworthy so we can display it at air shows and hire it out for private functions."

The brothers, both of whom went to Gladesmore Community School, in Elm Park Avenue, acquired the jet fighter via a family friend who runs Imperial Air Salvage, an aviation company specialising in the salvaging and dismantling of decommissioned aircraft.

Since buying the plane last month, the brothers have been busy stripping its tatty paintwork for a respray as part of its refurbishment.

Abdul is planning to take flying lessons, but is under no illusion about how challenging, expensive and protracted the training is to gain a jet pilot's licence – and that's without the considerable insurance costs.

Abdur, a qualified HGV mechanic who works for the Post Office, is also planning to take an aircraft engineer's maintenance course.

"Just sitting in the cockpit is a thrill, but we are determined to have it flying again, probably with a professional pilot at the controls," he added.

"Our pals may have souped-up motors, but they can't compete with a fighter jet," he added.

OBE recognition for survivor of 7/7 bombings

A WOMEN'S rights campaigner who survived the 7/7 bombings has been awarded an OBE in the New Year's Honours.

Community activist Sajda Mughal joined the Haringey-based charity Jan Trust after narrowly escaping serious injury in the 2005 London bombings.

She was on the Piccadilly Tube line train attacked by a suicide bomber between Kings Cross and Russell Square stations and is the only known Muslim survivor of the bombings. The experience made her determined to work to "strengthen the role that women and mothers play in building a stronger, safer community".

Her work as a director with the Bedford Road-based trust aims to combat barriers which exclude women from playing a role in the community, to counter terrorism and to give young people the tools to achieve their ambitions. She is also leading a project against forced marriages.

Ms Mughal, 32, said: "It is such an achievement to be recognised for the work I have been carrying out with disadvantaged women and youth, encouraging community cohesion and strengthening families to build safer and stronger communities."

She has won an international World of Difference award and has also been named as one of the 100 most influential Londoners.

Council on track to cut carbon emissions

THE town hall is doing its bit to save the planet and reduce global warming with energy-saving measures which have cut the greenhouse gases it produces by 11 per cent in the past year.

Haringey Council is on track to fulfil its pledge to slash carbon emissions by 40 per cent by 2020.

Emissions from council operations in 2013/14 were down 32.7 per cent on 2006/7 levels to 28,000 tonnes – the equivalent of taking nearly 4,200 cars off the streets of the borough and saving millions in fuel costs.

The figures are revealed in the council's Annual Carbon Report – with Haringey remaining the only local authority in the country to publish its progress towards tackling climate change.

The council is on track to cut its emissions by 40 per cent on 2006 levels to 24,858 tonnes by April 2015 – demonstrating its commitment to showing leadership in making Haringey a centre for green innovation.

The carbon-cutting success also means the council will save £225,000 in the amount it has to pay the government through the Carbon Reduction Commitment Energy Efficiency Scheme – a nationwide emissions levy for organisations that use large amounts of energy.

It has spearheaded a number of programmes designed to support its 40:20 commitment to reduce Haringey's carbon footprint by 40 per cent by 2020, including a scheme to offer up to £6,000 in grants to residents for home energy upgrades such as solid wall insulation, Decent Homes work on nearly 2,300 properties – including more than 1,000 boiler upgrades – a groundbreaking two-year partnership with Durham University on low-carbon innovation and research as well as support to help more than 100 businesses cut energy costs

Other council projects during the next year include investment in new solar panel arrays across 14 schools, council buildings and homes – set to save 137 tonnes of carbon – as well as making further improvements to energy efficiency.

Jury: Hannah's death was manslaughter

St Lucia verdict clears the way for British inquest

By Ruth McKee
ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE death of an aspiring dancer on a once-in-a-lifetime holiday was the result of manslaughter, a coroner has ruled.

The Advertiser has learned that the St Lucian inquest into the death of Hannah Defoe in a luxury resort on the Caribbean island on July 25, 2012, has concluded with a verdict of manslaughter as decided by a jury.

The inquest in View Fort, St Lucia, started in February last year and has taken almost a year to hear evidence from all parties concerned with the tragedy.

Hannah was electrocuted while swimming in the pool in the Juliette's Lodge resort in Vieux Fort in the north of the paradise isle in the West Indies.

Giving evidence to the St Lucian inquest via videolink in November, her aunt Janet Defoe, who was on holiday with her niece at the time, told the inquest jury that Hannah had been swimming in the pool when suddenly she called out and sank beneath the water.

Janet told of repeated attempts to rescue Hannah from the pool – but the water was inexplicably live and no one was able to dive in to save her without suffering electric shocks themselves. Reading from her witness statement, she told the jury and magistrate Robert Innocent: "I ran to the pool and when I got there I saw Hannah's body stretched out at the bottom of the pool.

"I jumped into the pool to rescue her. As soon as I jumped in I felt a fuzzy feeling over my whole body."

The British inquest has been postponed repeatedly while the authorities waited for the St Lucian inquest to conclude.

Now that there is a verdict in the investigations on the island it is expected that the British inquest can proceed.

Stowaway dies after becoming trapped under wheels of lorry

POLICE renewed appeals this week for witnesses to the death of a Sudanese migrant who was crushed beneath the wheels of a lorry he had been hiding under as it travelled on the M25 after leaving France.

Transport police were called to the site of a fatal collision between junctions 24 and 25 of the motorway at 7pm on Friday, December 12.

Officers who attended the scene found a man who had been trapped under the wheels of an HGV and another man, who had also clung to the underside of the lorry as it travelled to England via the Channel tunnel.

Police believe both men had climbed underneath the HGV in the French port of Calais at about 11am on Friday, December 12. The vehicle travelled towards London and joined the M25. At about 7pm the two men, both of whom were still clinging to the underside of the lorry, decided to escape while it was stationary in lane one of the motorway.

One of the men clambered down from the lorry and moved off towards the grass verge at the side of the road.

The other man tried to do the same. However, at that moment the lorry moved off and the man is believed to have been caught under wheels at the back of the vehicle and suffered fatal injuries.

Police believe the lorry driver was unaware of what had happened. They have identified the dead man as 28-year-old Ali Mossa-Gani, from Sudan. A post-mortem examination on December 19 gave the cause of death as multiple injuries.

The other man has been detained on suspicion of immigration offences.

Anyone who witnessed the accident is asked to contact the Roads and Transport Policing command on 020 8991 9555 or dial 101 and ask for Alperton Traffic Garage.

MBE: Peter Lovell for services to financial inclusion

Hard work adds up to a deserved medal for Peter

A MAN who has dedicated his life to helping budding entrepreneurs secure loans and finance in the face of opposition and rejection from mainstream lenders has been honoured for his work.

Peter Lovell, the chief executive of the North London Credit Union, has been made a Member of Order of the British Empire after receiving the gong for services to access to finance.

The Bush Hill Park resident told the Advertiser that he is "very, very pleased and excited" to have been recognised for all his work over the past 30 years in the non-profit sector.

The 67-year-old said that having worked in not-for-profit organisations geared towards helping the "financially excluded" to establish their own businesses has shown him how important it is to make sure more people are included in wealth creation.

"It is not just about job creation," he explained. "It is about trying to help people into business and entrepreneurship. Sometimes a person can't get a job – but they can be quite successful at the helm of a business. It is also about wealth creation as people set up a business and then employ other people."

And although he was under strict orders not to reveal to anyone that he had been honoured, he said that as he was used to keeping confidential information close to his chest – keeping his honour a secret from his wife and three grown-up children proved manageable.

"I simply didn't tell anyone," he added matter-of-factly.

A Royal delight for 'Brown Owl' Doreen

By Ruth McKee
ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A REAL-LIFE super-gran, who divides her time between helping run church events and leading a troupe of Brownies on adventures, has been honoured for her public service.

Doreen Oatham, 70, of Ulster Gardens, Palmers Green is Brown Owl (head honcho) of the St Monica's Brownie troupe, which meets in the Scout and Guide hall in Cannon Road, Southgate.

The energetic granny has been awarded the British Empire Medal in the New Year's Honours list for services to the Girl Guide movement and the community.

Speaking to the Advertiser after her gong had been announced, the grandmother-of-six said she had been stunned at the "great honour" when she heard that she was going to get the accolade.

"When the letter arrived, it was my daughter who opened it," Doreen revealed.

"And then she said, 'Oh mum, you've got it' – I had no idea what she was talking about.

"There are so many people who do lots of things for so many people – so it was really really nice that I got it."

As well as leading the Brownies on their adventures and escapades, Doreen drives elderly people to luncheon clubs and has organised big Christmas parties for the community in St Monica's church, in Stonard Road, Palmers Green.

As leader of the Southgate-based Brownie pack – Doreen is adamant that Girl Guiding is still as relevant to young girls and teenagers now as it ever was.

"It's not old-fashioned," she explained.

"There is so much pressure on young people nowadays and actually with Girl Guiding you can see the world, go camping, meet people from all over and it's a much cheaper hobby than some of the expensive after-school activities."

And she said that last year, which was the Brownies' 100th anniversary there had been a huge get-together in Alexandra Palace, in Wood Green, where girls from across the capital got together with a day of abseiling, climbing and zorbing.

"There was so much for the Brownies to do – it was fantastic," added Doreen.

The St Monica's Brownies meet every Wednesday, from 6.30pm to 8.30pm, at their headquarters in Cannon Road.

Honoured: Doreen Oatham was awarded a British Empire Medal for services to Guiding and Brownies

'I wanted to tell someone – but I just thought I daren't!'

A PLANNING enforcement officer by day and volunteer crimfighter by night has been honoured for his years of service to London's finest.

John Ayers, 63, lives in Enfield with his wife and while his day job involves clamping down on planning violations, since 1970 he has devoted his spare time to volunteering as a special constable in boroughs across north-east London.

Explaining how he felt when the envelope containing the news that he was going to be awarded a British Empire Medal dropped on to his doormat in November, he said: "I was very surprised, of course, and very, very pleased and proud. The letter said that I had to keep it under wraps that I had been nominated for this – and there are so many friends and colleagues who I knew would be pleased that I really wanted to tell someone – but I just thought, 'I daren't.'

He first volunteered to serve as a special constable in 1970 after being turned down by the regular police because he was just an inch and a half shy of the minimum height requirement of 5ft 8ins.

After almost 45 years on the force he has walked the beat around Edmonton, Tottenham and Walthamstow.

Reflecting on his decades on the force, he explained: "Policing has changed to reflect how society has changed."

BEM: John Ayers, a special constable for nearly 45 years

And he says the reason he has stuck with it for so many years is because he loves helping people.

"It is a good feeling – the sense that you are helping a community," he said.

John insists that even after the honour he will not be slowing down any time soon.

"Sometimes on a weekend I do a 12 or 14-hour day – but if I didn't enjoy it I wouldn't go back every week and I still do," he added.

Train fares and

Election hopeful Ryan slams ticket prices – while MP de Bois calls on company to attend public meeting

By Julia Gregory

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A PARLIAMENTARY hopeful has criticised the hike in rail fares which is hitting commuters hard while the MP she is bidding to replace has called for a public meeting with a train operator over staffing levels and passenger service.

Joan Ryan, Labour's prospective parliamentary candidate for Enfield North in this year's general election, said that some season tickets for Enfield commuters had risen by 33 per cent since the coalition government came into power in 2010.

She said a season ticket from Enfield Town to Liverpool Street had gone up from £1,200 five years ago to £1,596 in 2015.

She is calling for "better deal for passengers and taxpayers" and said the railways needed reforming with a simpler ticket system and a strict cap on fares on every route.

Ms Ryan said that if elected on May 7: "Labour will give passengers a voice in how the railways are run and stop passengers getting fleeced at ticket machines by making it a legal right for passengers to be sold the cheapest available ticket for their journey."

Enfield North's Conservative MP Nick De Bois has invited rail operator Govia to a public meeting to give passengers a chance to quiz them about their plans for train services on the line which runs through Enfield Chase, Winchmore Hill and Palmers Green to Finsbury Park, Moorgate and Kings Cross.

'Railways need reforming': Joan Ryan

He said that things had yet to get "significantly better" since Govia took over the franchise from First Capital Connect in September last year.

make sure our trains are running on time," he said.

Mr de Bois wants Govia managers to explain their plans to deal with staff shortages, new carriageways and improvements to timetables.

Roger Perkins, a spokesman for Govia, said: "Punctuality on our services is nine per cent better year on year and has shown an improvement every month since Great Northern took over the franchise in September."

He said the operator had added 1,100 extra seats in the weekday evenings and 2,500 more on Saturdays by doubling the length of trains on the Hertford and Welwyn Garden City routes combined since December.

Mr Perkins said: "Added to that the new toilets and refurbished waiting room at Enfield Chase and our plans, this month, to start the process of building a new fleet of 150 air-conditioned carriages for the route and I hope we will have plenty to talk about."

Keith Jipps, Govia's passenger services director for the Great Northern route, will attend the meeting, which starts at 7.30pm on Friday, January 23, at St Mary Magdalene church hall, in Windmill Hill, Enfield, and finishes at 9pm.

Man, 74, bailed on rape and false imprisonment charges

A MAN who was arrested more than a year ago on suspicion of imprisoning three women in his house over the course of three decades appeared in court yesterday.

Aravindan Balakrishnan, 74, of Latymer Road, Edmonton, appeared on bail at Southwark Crown Court charged with one count of cruelty to a person under the age of 16, one count of false imprisonment, 19 counts of indecent assault and four counts of rape.

The preliminary hearing set the date for a plea and case management hearing for March 4 at the same court. A provisional trial date has been set for July 20.

The 74-year-old remains on conditional bail.

He was arrested at his home address in Lambeth, south London, in November 2013 on suspicion of keeping three women in his home against their will.

The charges relate to women aged 69, 57 and 30, all of whom were discovered in his home, and cover a period of more than 30 years between 1980 and 2013.

Mr Balakrishnan was the leader of a Maoist collective in the late 1970s. He was ejected from the British Communist Party's national executive after his faction split with the leadership.

Complaints over 'failure to grit' icy roads

ENFIELD Council's Labour administration has come under fire for cutting back on gritting roads as winter starts to bite.

Last year the council announced that gritting would be scaled back to A-roads, major arteries and emergency routes as a result of funding cuts from central government.

However, Joanne Laban, the Conservative spokeswoman for environment, has hit out at the cost-cutting measure.

She said: "The weather over Christmas and New Year period was particularly icy on certain days and residents complained that it was difficult to get around because of the lack of gritting.

"At the moment it has only been very icy since the decision was made – but if it snows it will be harder to get to places of work or study."

Environment chiefs rejected the criticism and insisted that to date there had been no adverse affects.

"We had an unusually expansive gritting network compared to most London boroughs," said cabinet member for environment Chris Bond. "We have scaled that back to what would be a normal service in other boroughs. Last winter was exceptionally mild and this winter looks to be similarly so. We have had no complaints from emergency services and dust carts have been successful in their rounds".

However, Enfield resident Michelle Mercer, an animal carer at the National Animal Welfare Trust in Hertfordshire, told the Advertiser that she had witnessed a collision on The Ridgeway that she is convinced was caused by ice.

"I stepped out of the car and the road was like an ice rink, treacherous with black ice," she said.

"I don't understand why on such a main route the gritters didn't seem to have been out on that stretch of road in the early morning."

However, Mr Bond insisted that as The Ridgeway is a major artery it would have been gritted. But he said that the council was looking at new measures to improve safety on a road that has become notorious as an accident blackspot.

"We are hoping to reduce the speed limit on the road and will take measures to do so later in the year," he added.

Jobs axe as City Link depot shuts

Closed: The City Link depot in Edmonton

By Julia Gregory
newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

THIRTY-ONE people have been made redundant at City Link's Edmonton depot.

They were made redundant on New Year's Eve while five workers have been kept on to deal with outstanding parcels at the courier and parcel delivery firm's depot at Bestway Business Park in Ardra Road.

The firm went into administration on Christmas Eve and the company's 2,727 employees were told to brace themselves for large numbers of redundancies before they were sent home.

The administrators have written to all 2,356 people who have lost their jobs, confirming their fate and providing details of how to claim redundancy and notice period.

An offer made by a consortium to buy the business was rejected by administrators as it had "significantly undervalued the assets". Hunter Kelly, joint administrator of City Link Limited, said: "The company endured substantial losses, which ultimately became too great for it to continue as a going concern."

The RMT's general secretary Mick Cash slammed the company's collapse.

He said: "The City Link Christmas destruction is an act of industrial vandalism that shames our nation while the government looked on and offered nothing but hollow words."

The union said the company's closure meant that workers were facing a "human tragedy" and some employees had lost thousands of pounds.

Te RMT's Geoff Martin said he did not expect the jobs for City Link's remaining workers to last for long. "We are talking weeks before the whole lot goes," he added.

Another courier company, TNT, has urged City Link workers to get in touch.

Steampunks power to New Year's Parade win

By Julia Gregory

newsless@nlhnews.co.UK

A STUNNING display featuring a people powered "green'"steam engine, a golden bicycle and towering chimneys helped Enfield scoop first prize in the London New Year's Day Parade.

The borough's entry in this year's parade took the £7,500 top prize and was created by Edmonton-based Art Start, which is celebrating its 20th anniversary in 2015.

This year's event was the 29th festival and took the theme of London on the Move. It involved 8,500 performers from the UK and overseas and was watched by an estimated 550,000 spectators who lined the 2.2-mile route from Green Park to Westminster.

Art Start manager Debbie Dean said its designers created an entry called Under Your Steam to give the parade "a special Enfield twist".

It paid tribute to products made in Enfield's factories, including electric light bulbs from Ponders End and radio valves.

They were inspired by steampunks, a subculture which celebrates our industrial heritage and created a golden bicycle using recycled wheels, cogs and a chimney.

People who attended Enfield's Christmas parade in the town centre got a sneak preview of part of the display and the Art Start team spent the days between Christmas and New Year creating the rest of the costumes and machines at their base in South Way.

On the move: Art Start's display uses giant telescopes to look for inspiration on the streets of London during the parade

Ms Dean said: "It demonstrated Enfield industry and invention and moving into a new period of cycle power."

A team of 20 people created the displays and costumes and 30 performers took to the streets in costumes inspired by Jules Verne. Characters included The Aviator, The Inventor, The Musician and The Steam Engineer, with children playing the role of apprentices using giant telescopes to look for inspiration on the streets of London.

Judges were looking for originality, performance and how the theme was developed.

Get ready for traffic gridlock

IN reply to Reg Hart ("What we have is a failure to communicate", Advertiser, December 3), it is regrettable that he did not receive the questionnaire about the Wolves Lane Quieter Neighbourhood scheme.

It came through my letterbox in October and I assumed it to went to all residents. I met residents who received it. Some returned it, some did not.

I understand that 200 replied and 60 residents were invited to attend to meeting at the Scouts HQ in Wolves Lane, of whom 12 arrived.

I agree that all residents in the area should have been consulted. My letter of October 15 in the local press opposed the scheme and was intended to warn residents of traffic movement problems caused by any road closures.

For Mr Hart's benefit, I am a member of Weir Hall and District Ratepayers' Association, which covers a large area east of Wolves Lane and termination of the W4 bus route in Chequers Way.

Enfield Council seems determined to have Quieter Neighbourhoods across the borough, but if they come to fruition, be prepared for gridlock on our overcrowded major roads when more traffic is forced to use them.

People don't want scheme

REGARDING the judicial review on the landlord licensing scheme, Councillor Ahmet Oykener said: "We make no apologies for putting the views of the people we represent at the heart of our consultation activity" (Advertiser, December 17).

The fact is that 95 per cent of the 2,000 Enfield residents who voted during the consultation conducted by Enfield Council voted against the scheme. How did the council respond to the "views of the people they represent"? It went ahead and voted through the scheme regardless.

That looks a lot more like contempt for the people you allegedly represent, Mr Oykener, rather than concern for their views.

Car park project puts people at risk

THE car park in the playing fields of George Spicer School has been completed at last. Also the extensive road works in connection with the 20mph zone have been finished.

Car users will drive 800m down Ladysmith Road and then walk back via an alley 400m to a rear entrance in the new annex. Teaching staff will have their own car cark, adjacent to the school site.

Ladysmith Road was closed to through traffic some time ago, to close a rat run and bring some relief to the residents. Proposed increases in traffic mean further pollution, which leads to lung cancer, respiratory and heart disease, asthma and autism.

I feel parents and children will be put at serious risk by having to walk along a route which is not overlooked, no matter now many lights and cameras are installed.

In at least one London borough, the police have promised extra patrols at school run times to prevent muggings. Mothers were quoted as saying that these attacks take place in the side-roads. Here, we have an ideal location, between high fences and allotments.

All these facts have been presented to the council, which has brushed them to one side.

The whole project falls short of Enfield's six-point action plan and fails to improve the local environment or public health.

Needless to say, neither education or the crime rate is mentioned.

Policing the A10 is a job for mayor and TfL

COUNCILLOR Nick Dines ("Don't Duck the Boy Racer Issue", Advertiser, December 10) is wrong. This is not about blame but about responsibility.

Sceptics might argue it's about scoring political points, too. The A10 and its policing are down to the Mayor of London and Transport for London and observant readers will have noticed that for all the rhetoric in these pages, nothing has changed.

I've done a little quiet research and I can reveal that average speed cameras are not going to be installed on the A10, that police numbers in Enfield are down from 609 to 583 as a result of their deployment elsewhere in London and that the additional police reputedly "secured" will not be operational until mid-summer.

The retail park is privately owned and cuts in police numbers by the Mayor of London mean that there is no permanent police presence to enforce the Public Spaces Protection Orders, unlike in Colchester.

Enfield Council works in close partnership with the local police and while this is predominantly a matter for Transport for London, the owners of the retail park, the police and the Mayor of London, the council is happy to support any measures these agencies believe will help to tackle this problem and we will assist in any way we can.

Sir Bernard Hogan-Howe, the commissioner of the Metropolitan Police, has warned of the risks to public safety of further cuts to come and of the need for agencies to work together.

I couldn't agree more.

Councillor Vicki Pite
Chase ward

Don't forget bus users!

IT'S good to see a healthy debate in your letters page among various shades of opinion about the plans for cycling in Enfield. No doubt councillors and officers are paying close attention.

However, can I raise the voice of bus passengers, who will always exceed the number of cyclists and hopefully in future the number of motorists as well?

It's not clear to me how taking up road space for cycle lanes along Green Lanes, the removal of bus lanes and the changes at key junctions can do other than have a seriously negative effect on bus travel times.

In addition if I read the original proposals correctly, at least one key bus stop outside The Fox in Palmers Green has to go because of the new traffic lights replacing the Fox Lane/Green Lanes roundabout.

I also wonder how bus stops and cycle lanes will be integrated. Do I step off the bus into a cycle lane, or do cyclists still have to pull out into the traffic flow around a bus at a bus stop? Either way someone suffers.

I'd be grateful to know how all this will work. Are the bus companies and that part of Transport for London responsible for bus transport being consulted?

Paramedics need support

IT is of great concern that, in Enfield, we are seeing emergency ambulances missing the target time for half of all category A (immediately life-threatening) calls, according to the London Ambulance Service's latest figures. Patients in dire need require urgent assistance. In some cases their lives may depend on it. The current situation is unacceptable.

The people of Enfield need a service that can be relied upon and the LAS's dedicated staff needs greater support. Unfortunately, this will not be forthcoming from a Tory-led government which has already downgraded facilities at Chase Farm Hospital and which, nationally, seems more interested in putting profits before patient care.

Tunnel closure misery for motorists

By Russ Lawrence
russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

DRIVERS are being warned to allow extra time for journeys due to the closure for three weekends of the crumbling Fore Street tunnel for major improvement works.

Motorists and bus passengers are advised to expect severe delays as the round-the-clock modernisation works start this weekend to the tunnel on the A406 North Circular Road, which runs under Silver Street station in Edmonton.

Transport chiefs hope motorists will plan their journeys to avoid a repeat of the gridlock which accompanied a previous weekend closure in November last year.

The tunnel will be shut between January 9 and 12 from 10pm on Friday night until 5.30am on Monday morning and will be similarly closed on the weekends of January 30 to February 2 and February 13 to 16.

The continuing maintenance works are part of Transport for London's £4billion Road Modernisation plan.

Drivers are advised to use the M25 instead of the North Circular Road. Local traffic will still be able to use roads directly above the tunnel, but motorists and bus passengers are being warned to expect severe delays and allow extra time for journeys.

The tunnel has suffered from groundwater seepage and the work to install new concrete plinths can only be carried out when traffic is not using the tunnel due to the length of time the concrete takes to set.

Since April last year TfL has been carrying out overnight work to the tunnel with upgrades to the electrics and a new fire main installed as well as new waterproofing to the walls.

Temporary cabling for new energy-efficient lighting and improved CCTV cameras has also been installed, allowing for them to be upgraded this year.

Dana Skelley, director of asset management for surface transport at TfL, said: "The important refurbishment work we are carrying out at Fore Street Tunnel continues to progress well.

"However, there are some aspects of the work that, unfortunately, cannot be completed without full weekend closures. We are committed to keeping disruption caused by these closures to a minimum and apologise in advance for any inconvenience caused."

'Tell us the cost of bid for landlords licensing'

By Julia Gregory

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

COUNCIL chiefs have been challenged to reveal how much has been spent on a consultation into a landlord licensing scheme which was branded a "costly farce" after a judge ruled that it had not asked enough people for their views in its initial survey.

Croydon Council has decided to extend its own consultation into a similar scheme by a further ten weeks following the High Court's ruling that Enfield had not cast its net wide enough in its consultation.

The south London authority said: "This will allow those in our borough more time to provide feedback and give people in neighbouring boroughs a more targeted opportunity to have their say."

Conservative housing spokesman Edward Smith has challenged Enfield Council to follow Croydon's example.

He said: "The council's proposed landlord licensing scheme has descended into a costly farce, with legal fees escalating and taxpayers having to foot the bill."

Last month a High Court ruling said that a proposal to make all private landlords in Enfield buy into a licensing scheme "cannot be lawfully implemented unless and until Enfield conducts a lawful consultation".

The council is appealing against December's High Court decision.

Questions: Enfield councillors Ahmet Oykener and Edward Smith

Mr Smith has sent eight questions to cabinet member for housing Ahmet Oykener and wants to know how much has been spent on legal bills and the original consultation.

Mr Smith has also asked about the cost of a more extensive consultation.

He said: "Croydon Council has recognised the inherent flaws in Enfield's previous consultation and acted accordingly. Enfield by contrast is choosing to spend yet more on legal fees."

Mr Oykener has said that the council was surprised by the ruling as it had extended its consultation outside the borough boundaries and ran it for 12 weeks, a fortnight longer than recommended by government.

He told the Advertiser: "Mr Smith has not contacted Enfield Council or myself regarding these questions relating to the landlord licensing scheme.

"We have requested leave to appeal against the court's decision and as such it would be inappropriate for us to comment further at this stage.

"However, 84 per cent of Enfield's residents and a majority of Enfield's businesses who responded to the consultation strongly agreed with the council's original decision to introduce the scheme.

"We will continue to stand up for the views and interests of Enfield's residents and remain committed to introducing a scheme that many residents are waiting to be implemented."

Wartime spy is honoured – 70 years after tragic death

Villagers pay tribute to daring soldier who escaped POW camp

Remembering her brother: Gwen Coaster with her daughter Marianne Newberry and grandson Peter Frost

Memorial stone: The place in Verona where Peter Chapman (above right) was shot dead by Fascists

By Ruth McKee
ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A SPY for the British in World War II, who hid in plain sight behind German lines in Italy, was honoured yesterday with a memorial service in a small village he briefly called home.

Peter Chapman was born and brought up in Brimsdown Avenue and was a pupil at George Spicer School, in Southbury Road, Enfield, when he decided to sign up with the Army at the outbreak of war.

He was soon fighting on the front line in north Africa and Peter's sister, Gwen Coaster, 86, of The Brackens, Enfield, told the Advertiser that he was captured during a particularly intense desert battle by the Germans, who then turned him over to the Italians.

They interned him in a prisoner of war camp near Verona in the north of Italy and when the Italians surrendered to the Allies in 1943 he was able to escape.

"He had just learned that our other brother had been killed – he was with an Atlantic convoy – and I think that knowledge filled him with a kind of need for revenge. It became personal and he wanted to keep fighting against the Germans," Gwen explained.

On the run from the Germans, Peter sought refuge in the Verona countryside, where he was taught fluent Italian by the eight-year-old daughter of a woman who smuggled food to him.

Armed with this new skill – that helped him sound like a Verona native – and with detailed local knowledge built up from his time in hiding, he joined the partisans – Italians fighting against the German invasion.

With the Allies trying to advance up the country from their landing base in the south – and the Germans holding firm on to their northern territories – including Verona – Peter was able to get behind the German lines to carry out high level intelligence operations for the British, who smuggled his assignments to him in air drops.

"He was very brave," Gwen said of her brother. "I know he was the type of person to keep fighting, but because of what happened to him I sometimes wished he wasn't so brave."

The Germans learned of his spying and resistance activities and placed a bounty on his head.

Just before the end of the war, on January 6, 1945, when he was just 22 years old, Peter was shot dead by three Fascist fighters, who spotted him out riding his bike.

However, his memory lives on and 70 years to the day after he was betrayed and killed a special memorial service was held to commemorate his life in the village of Caselle di Pressana.

"The Italians thought so much of him and looked after him," added Gwen. "I am very grateful to the Italians because, to be honest, England didn't seem to want to know. So it is wonderful to know he is being remembered so proudly."

Thousands oblivious to danger of high BP

By Russ Lawrence
russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

THOUSANDS of the borough's residents are unaware they suffer from a potentially lethal health condition, according to medics.

As many as 26,000 Enfield residents don't know they suffer from high blood pressure.

Enfield Council's public health team estimates that's how many residents don't know they have high blood pressure, which has no symptoms but can cause a stroke or heart attack leading to death at any time.

It is a ticking timebomb and the council is advising residents to get their blood pressure checked and make lifestyle changes to reduce the risk.

Public Health England has published a High Blood Pressure action plan offering advice and guidance on the effective identification, treatment and prevention of this serious disorder.

If high blood pressure is not identified, it cannot be controlled and its consequences are estimated to cost the NHS over £2billion every year.

Rohini Simbodyal, the council's cabinet member for leisure, culture, sport, youth and public health, said: "It is not just the financial cost that is a concern to us – but the real cost of human suffering.

"I want to reinforce the messages that diet, weight and exercise are some of the ways to tackle it. The stark facts about high blood pressure cases in Enfield are astonishing. More than 40,000 people have been diagnosed with it and of these 9,000 are not controlled or monitored.

"Some little changes can help you keep healthy blood pressure. Don't let a silent killer take over."

Mesmerising: Eddie Redmayne as Professor Stephen Hawking

Astounding Redmayne is worthy of an Oscar

THE THEORY OF EVERYTHING (12A, 123 mins) Drama/Romance. Eddie Redmayne, Felicity Jones, Charlie Cox, David Thewlis, Emily Watson, Harry Lloyd, Simon McBurney, Abigail Cruttenden, Maxine Peake. Director: James Marsh.

Released: January 1 (UK & Ireland)

IN Scottish novelist JM Barrie's most beloved work, Peter Pan famously contemplates his mortality on Marooner's Rock and observes: "To die will be an awfully big adventure".

For more than half a century since he was diagnosed with motor neurone disease, theoretical physicist Stephen Hawking has pushed aside his awfully big adventure and astounded the medical community.

Defying the short life expectancy associated with the rare condition, he has married twice, raised a family and altered our narrow perception of the universe including the publication of his worldwide bestseller, A Brief History Of Time.

As Hawking remarked at a press conference in 2006, "However bad life may seem, there is always something you can do, and succeed at. While there's life, there is hope."

Those inspirational words are repeated verbatim in The Theory Of Everything.

Based on the memoir Travelling To Infinity, by Jane Wilde Hawking, James Marsh's deeply moving drama charts the romance of Stephen (Eddie Redmayne) and first wife Jane (Felicity Jones) from fleeting glances at a party at mid-1960s Cambridge University through their subsequent battle against MND.

Love must find a way and Jane defies everyone, even a pessimistic Stephen, to stand beside her soulmate.

"I want us to be together, for as long as we've got," she tells him. "If that's not very long then – well, that's just how it is."

Her resolve inspires Stephen to continue his search for "one single elegant equation to explain everything". Aided by choirmaster Jonathan Jones (Charlie Cox) and carer Elaine Mason (Maxine Peake), Jane raises the couple's three children and holds their marriage together.

The Theory Of Everything is anchored by two outstanding performances.

Redmayne is simply astounding, affecting a mesmerising physical transformation that surely warrants an Oscar.

Jones is equally compelling as his soulmate, who sacrifices everything in the name of love.

The scene in which she finally acknowledges hard-fought defeat to save the relationship and tearfully tells Stephen: "I have loved you... I did my best" is heartbreaking.

With its delicate balance of tear-stained drama, deeply felt romance and comedy, The Theory Of Everything hits on a winning formula.

Smurfs conjure up some panto magic

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

THOSE weird blue-skinned Belgian cartoon characters, the Smurfs, provide an antidote to the post-festive gloom when they're brought to life on stage in an urban street dance pantomime.

They feature in Smurfs and the Magic Lamp, a modern retelling of Aladdin and his Magic Lamp, which starts an eight-day run between January 8 and 18 at Edmonton's Millfield Theatre tomorrow.

The venue has already staged its traditional festive panto Sleeping Beauty – and now hot on its heels is a production from the theatre's own "Fame" academy.

Platinum Performing Arts is based at the theatre, in Silver Street, and runs dance, drama and singing classes every Saturday and Sunday. The academy offers young people of all backgrounds the chance to study and hone their talents for a showbiz career.

Nina Lewis, a professional fitness instructor and qualified Latin and ballroom dancer teacher, founded it nine years ago.

She said: "I was dyslexic and not very academic at school. It was my ambition to help creative young people express themselves and fulfil their dream of stardom. Among the 200 students, many we work with have physical or learning disabilities, which is especially rewarding."

Magic: The Smurfs are featured in Millfield Theatre's latest show

The show, which sees the Smurfs on a magical carpet ride to help Aladdin find his beloved Jasmine, features the Platinum troupe – the UK's street dance champions.

And among the dances is one choreographed by Nathan "Oddey" Kabongo, a member of Britan's Got Talent dance troupe finalists, Flawless, who is one of the academy's eight dance teachers.

HOW TO FIND THE IDEAL PERIOD HOME

Homes built in a bygone era have always been popular; their distinctive features and fascinating past are undeniably charming. With UK house building figures at their highest since 2007, older homes are ever more unique and, therefore, sought after. Richard Oughton from Ellis and Co Enfield Town Branch offers some advice on why a period home may be suitable for you.

Older homes were built far earlier than modern homes and have therefore secured desired locations. If you enjoy the prospect of city centre living, a Georgian or Victorian property that has been converted into flats would be ideal. They tend to be closer to the centre as they utilise the space whilst retaining a wealth of period features including cast iron fireplaces, cornicing and high ceilings. If you would rather move to an area further out of the city, Victorian terrace houses and Georgian townhouses are extremely popular as they are very spacious and often situated within local communities.

Built when plots of land were a great deal larger than they are today, period homes are often very spacious. Townhouses work well for families as they tend to have large reception rooms and bedrooms on the second and third floors. Many also come with enclosed gardens which suit families with young children. If you are looking to downsize or searching for a retirement home, then consider a mews house or flat as they have compact interiors. These would also work well for a second home or bolthole as they are smaller and therefore easier to maintain.

Listed properties are an exciting opportunity for those of you who love historic buildings. As they are treasured by communities, they are often higher in value than non-listed properties. In addition, some registered homes are eligible for grants from English Heritage, local authorities or the Historic Buildings & Monuments Commission to cover the cost of maintenance and refurbishment. However, do carefully consider whether any major renovation plans will be accepted to avoid disappointment post-purchase. This needn't be a drawback; the listing is in place to protect the features you love and you can tailor your design to attain approval.

You may not have previously considered a period property but they have plenty of advantages. Discuss what is imperative to you and your family with your estate agent so they can help you determine whether a period home will suit your needs.

For further information or advice concerning period or more modern property in the Enfield/Winchmore Hill areas, then please contact Richard on 020 8363 8282 or email enfield@ellisandco.co.uk

A bite to match its bark

By Matt Kimberley

I'M going to start at the end. Having this car parked outside my flat for the Past six months has been a privilege. It reminds me every time I drive it that there are fast, fun cars out there that you don't need to thrash around like you're a hormone-charged teenager. It's a car in which you can chill out just as much as go sports car-baiting – but boy, is it good at the latter.

First let me sum up the performance. When you let it loose, the Cupra 280 runs riot like a furiously territorial bull. It rampages through the DSG gearbox with the front tyres on the limit, slamming each new ratio home with a satisfying whump in the back and a cheeky parp from the twin exhausts.

I reckon it could – and should – be a bit louder in Cupra mode, the angriest of the four driving mode selector options. When Comfort and Individual modes can take care of the quiet, relaxed, everyday thing, there's no reason to hold back with Cupra.

The VAQ triple-clutch differential assist on the front axle is worth its weight in unobtanium, managing the immense torque across the grippy front Bridgestones to devastating effect. Dry weather traction is unbelievable: violent, relentless and intoxicating. Your tyre fitter will thank you for the extra business if you enjoy it too often.

The DSG gearbox is a thorn in the car's side. It's a bit fragile, so torque has to be limited and fed in slowly when the turbo first spools up. It helps to make the automatic Cupra the gentler and more relaxed option compared to the manual, but the latter is more immediate, more explosive, more raw and, believe it or not, smoother – unless you're a complete dunce with the clutch.

Then there's the lack of real manual control to boost the sense of driving involvement. If you don't shift up in time, it'll do it for you, so if you're just a fraction late with the shift paddle, you end up switching two gears instead of one. It could definitely be implemented better. At the additional price it commands, it's hard to recommend DSG.

But either way, having that swell of torque on tap is a joy even if you only ever use 20% of it on your commute. Just knowing it's there is enough to put a smile on your face.

Over my time with it, I did come across some annoying niggles. The CD player being in the glove box is one of them and the desperately old-tech media screen is another – I'm sure the screen on my first mobile phone had better resolution. OK, I exaggerate, but it really isn't good enough for a 2014 car costing almost £30,000 before options. Thankfully, the much-improved unit from the Leon X-Perience could see production in the Cupra in a year or two.

What I really love about the hottest Leon is that it's not perfect. My affection for it comes squarely from the heart rather than the head. There are flaws to accept and work around, just like with a husband or wife, but it's all part of the hot Seat's unique character. It helps that it's especially beautiful in the three-door SC body style with its sleekly sloping roof line and rear three-quarter curves to die for. The Leon Cupra 280 is uber-desirable; it's a car you buy because it pulls your heartstrings more than any of its rivals. But rest assured it has the bite to back up its bark.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.
2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.
To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.
3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:
 (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
 (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
 (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.
4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.
7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.
8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.
9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.
11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.
12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.
13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.
 (1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.
 (2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.
14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.
15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.
16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.
17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.
18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers
Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.
Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category
All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection
The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.
Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.
Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

SPURS' DELIGHT AT CHELSEA WIN

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

Making his mark: Nacer Chadli got on the scoresheet in Tottenham's stunning Premier League victory over Chelsea

NACER CHADLI insisted that Tottenham Hotspur always had the belief to beat Chelsea in the wake of their stunning 5-3 victory over the Premier League leaders.

A remarkable match at White Hart Lane on New Year's Day saw Diego Costa put Chelsea ahead before a three-goal burst from Harry Kane, Danny Rose and Andros Townsend late in the first half put Spurs in control.

Kane added a fourth and, after Eden Hazard pulled a goal back, the impressive Chadli got on the scoresheet to mean that John Terry's late goal was scant consolation for the visitors.

And Chadli was delighted with Tottenham's display as they climbed up into fifth place in the table.

"It was amazing," the Belgian international said. "These are the best games to win – against the league leaders – and we showed great football and a great attitude as well.

"We conceded the goal, but we knew we were playing well and creating chances. We knew we could get back into the game. We kept doing our thing, played our football and did get back in it.

"The fans were right behind us all the way, and it's fantastic to win at home against Chelsea.

"I'm working hard every game. I want to show the best of myself. I feel great and I'm just happy to help us win games. I just try to do my best and the most important thing is three points."

While Chadli impressed throughout, it was Kane who again stole the show with another fantastic display – providing two assists to add to his brace of goals as he further enhanced his rapidly growing reputation.

Both of Kane's goals were fine strikes and he claimed that his opener was probably the best of his career to date.

"I think it was the best goal, with the moment and the situation we were in against one of the best teams in the world," he said. "I was delighted to score.

"It was good to get us back into the game and to come back and win the way we did. It was a great night for us.

"Whenever I get the ball on the edge of the box I always look to shoot and thankfully it went in. From there we really pushed on, built momentum and ended up with five goals against a really good defence.

"The fans were immense. They will be buzzing going into the New Year having beaten one of their London rivals. I'm delighted for the fans and delighted for the club. Hopefully we can take the belief from this game into the matches ahead."

Kane added: "We all enjoyed the win against Chelsea, but we won't get carried away. We'll keep our feet on the ground."

Pochettino left frustrated by fixture pile-up as FA Cup clash at Burnley ends all square

HEAD coach Mauricio Pochettino admitted that the last thing Tottenham Hotspur wanted was to have to play an extra game after their FA Cup third round tie at Burnley ended in a 1-1 draw on Monday night.

Spurs are still involved in four competitions and have a two-legged Capital One Cup semi-final against League One outfit Sheffield United to look forward to later this month.

February sees Tottenham resuming their Europa League campaign with a clash against Italian side Fiorentina in the last 32 of the competition, while the team are also still very much in contention for a top four finish in the Premier League.

But they will now have to play an extra match on top of all this next week after they were held in an uninspiring tie at Turf Moor.

Spurs made seven changes from the side who beat Chelsea in their previous outing, and they lacked fluency during a dire first half.

The introduction of Harry Kane as a half-time substitute helped to spark the visitors into life, and they went close three times before Nacer Chadli fired them into a 56th-minute lead.

But Sam Vokes grabbed an equaliser 17 minutes later and neither side was able to grab a winner in the closing stages as the tie went to a replay – with a home clash against Leicester City at stake for the victors.

"I'm disappointed because we need to play another game," Pochettino said. "We have a lot of games ahead and now another one.

"The first half was poor for both teams but the second I think we were better and we let them back in the game. For that I am disappointed.

"We improved our performance in the second half. It wasn't enough to win the game and go to the next round, but at least we are still in the FA Cup.

"We gave Burnley the opportunity to come back into the game, and this is our frustration. We were better at that moment and had control of the game but in football you need to kill the game when you have the opportunity. That didn't happen."

Pochettino added: "The fans were amazing. I thank them for their support on a Monday night a long way from London. The effort was great from our supporters and I thank them all."

But defender Jan Vertonghen, who captained Spurs in the match, insisted that the most important thing was that they avoided defeat and was full of praise for the exploits of his Belgian international team-mate Chadli.

"We scored a very good goal and were the better team at that time," he said. "It was a shame that they scored.

"The important thing is to go through and it's a shame we couldn't do it in this match. It will give us another midweek game and hopefully we can stay in the flow. We haven't lost for a while now.

"Nacer is a great player. Last year he had some injuries. He worked hard during the summer to come back fit. He's a top player and I was so glad when he signed for us.

"I think the game against Chelsea was one of the best I've seen from him. I'm happy that he can show the supporters and everyone else in Europe what he's capable of."

Before the replay against Burnley, Spurs visit Crystal Palace in the league on Saturday and Vertonghen is expecting a tough test from the strugglers.

"Palace were very good at the Lane, very compact with good players up front," he added. "They changed their manager and they will do everything they can to win against us because it's their first game at home under a new manager."
